

Press Release

Nok Air Takes Delivery of its 7th Brand New Q400 NextGen

Bangkok, (18 July 2016) – Nok Air, a Thai premium low-cost carrier took delivery of its brand new Q400 NextGen from Bombardier, the world’s leading manufacturer of planes based in Toronto, Canada.

The airline continues to grow and enhances the service with the latest addition, 7th brand new Q400 NextGen turboprop aircraft featuring Nok Air’s latest beautifully designed livery ‘Nok Suk San’ HS-DQG, which seats 86 passengers.

“Nok Air, we are proud to operate with Q400 one of the world’s newest, innovative and technologically advanced aircraft. We are continually modernizing our fleet capability to support our ever expanding network while providing an excellent travel experience for our passengers,” said Mr. Patee Sarasin, Nok Air’s CEO.

The airline fleet currently includes seven Q400 NextGens, 21 Boeing 737-800s, and two ATR 72-500s. The additional two aircraft due for arrival later this year. Nok Air is a truly Thai airline that remains steadfast in each step it takes for making our passengers smiling across Asia.

-End-

For further information, please contact:

Nichaporn Luttimon

Domestic Corporate Communications Manager

Email: Nichaporn.lut@nokair.com